New Hardware Compressed, High-Resolution Mobile DVR Launched by Sentry Security Systems Inc.

Mobile DVR for surveillance applications when reliability, performance and portability are factors, such as Public Transportation, Law Enforcement and Military vehicles.

Kingston, ONT — Building on the success of the Sentry SMD-04 Mobile DVR, Sentry has recently launched a new hardware compressed version - the Sentry SMD-04HC. It's contained in a small, rugged, vibration and shock resistant case, produces MPEG4 high-resolution video at 120 fps (real-time), allows recorded video to be quickly exported through its USB port and offers a choice of recording options.

The Sentry SMD-04HC Mobile DVR supports up to 4 channels of video, 2 channels of audio and gives users the option of selecting recording resolutions from CIF (352x240) to D1 (704x480). The removable hard drive stores recorded video and can be removed and connected to a standard PC to view recorded video. Networking and remote access can be accomplished through its standard LAN Port. This mobile solution comes complete with everything required for simple installation.

"One of the reasons the Sentry Mobile SMD-04HC is so attractive as a high performance, portable surveillance solution, is its dependability." says Mike Demmons, Business Development Manager at Sentry. "Mobile DVR applications require an elevated level of reliability and high quality video. The Sentry SMD-04HC mobile DVR accomplishes this providing our dealers with satisfied customers that translate into repeat business."
